

What is it worth?

There is a link between asset management and financial sustainability. It is highly unlikely that an organization will achieve financial sustainability without quality asset management planning. The Public Sector Accounting Board, PS3150 set the ground work for determining "What an asset is worth?" Amortizing a capital expenditure requires the establishment of the useful life of the asset. Several documents from various organizations have been published and are available on this topic.